

I encourage you to continue to regulate the large telcos as they set rates for independent ISPs. These independent ISPs are a critical part of our communications infrastructure. Without them, it will be difficult or impossible to maintain healthy competition. The large telcos must be held accountable for charging independent ISPs fairly so that they will compete at the customer level.